Re San Diego letter and letterhead memorandum
(LHM) to Bureau, Chicago and others dated 1/2/73.

On December 21, 1972, Sergeant ROBERT SMITH (protect per request), Oceanside Police Department, Intelligence, Oceanside, California, advised that one BARRY LEON MATHIS, also known as BYRON LEON MATHIS and DONALD BELLAMY, was arrested on September 27, 1971, by the Oceanside, California Police Department. He had in his possession three notebooks which contained the names and addresses of various persons whom the police believed to be potential De Mau Mau or actual De Mau Mau members. Notations in the book are prefaced by the word "Brother" or the term "Black Brother." Some of the names are also preceded or followed by the word "De Mau Mau." Sergeant SMITH noted the handwriting was different in each notebook, indicating the names and addresses were compiled by more than one person. It was believed by SMITH that the notebooks were compiled by MATHIS and unidentified associates while they were stationed in Vietnam in the United States Marine Corps, and that the notebooks were compiled prior to September, 1971.

Following below is a list of individuals, who are residents of the Chicago area, and were taken from the notebooks previously mentioned:

DE MAU MAU

On February 15, 1973, James Edward Thomas, Route 1, Post Office 20-A, Riverview, Alabama, telephone number 756-7211, advised that:

He was in the United States Marine Corps as an enlisted man from September 11, 1969, to September 10, 1971, when he completed his military obligation and was honorably discharged. From December 19, 1970, to March 12, 1971, he was a motor transport operator and was assigned to Headquarters Company of the Fifth Marine Regiment which was located at Wau Veng (phonetic), Vietnam. This town is located approximately eight miles southeast of the Da Nang Airstrip.

While in the Fifth Marine Regiment he was approached by two Negro males who were members of the Fifth Marines. These Negro males told Thomas that they wanted him to join the De Mau Mau (DMM). Thomas was not interested and declined to do so. Thomas knew one of these individuals by the name of "Brother Bob" and the other by the of "Brother Sly."

"Brother Bob" was allegedly the "senior." This meant he was the DMM member assigned to the Fifth Marines for the longest period of time.

A few nights following Thomas' being approached by "Brother Bob" and "Brother Sly," Thomas was in his "houch" playing records when "Brother Bob" sent a "dude" to get Thomas and bring him to "Brother Bob's" houch. Thomas was scared so he accompanied this person to "Brother Bob's" houch without offering resistance. When Thomas arrived at "Brother Bob's" there were approximately forty to fifty non-white Marines there and Thomas was "crowned." The term "crowned" meant that Thomas was initiated into the DMM. Thomas was then given the insignia of the DMM which he advised was a leather necklace type emblem fashioned from combat boots. This emblem is rectangular shaped on one end and is triangular on the other, and is fastened around the neck by leather boot laces.

FBI - MOBILE

Immediately following his initiation, a DMM in attendance named "Brother Nice or Brother Neat" asked Thomas if he would steal a jeep for the DMM. Thomas replied that he could not. This was the only DMM meeting ever attended by Thomas and he stated that the only reason he ever became a DMM was because of fear that he had for reprisals that the DMM might take against him if he did not join.

The DMM in the Fifth Marine Regiment had a considerable membership and many blacks were pressured into becoming members even though they did not care to do so because those blacks did not join were ostracized by the DMM.

Thomas advised that during his assignment to the Fifth Marines, the DMM continued to hold meetings called "Rap Sessions" on the average of about two to three times a week. These "Rap Sessions" were about two hours in length and as best as Thomas could determine were always attended by non-whites. He stated that there were approximately thirty-five blacks, four or five Puerto Ricans, and approximately ten Spanish-Americans who attended these meetings. He stated that those in attendance discussed mutinous conduct, insubordination and also talked about being a part of "the revolution." He stated that during the meeting he attended, "Brother Bob" stated that "when the revolution comes, Jesus Christ will be trying to catch a taxicab up to heaven." Thomas stated that a Mess Sergeant known by the name of "Brother Killer" but whose last name was Harris, would provide black record albums which were listened to during these meetings.

Thomas stated that on occasion these "Rap Sessions" were attended by the Battalion Commander, Lieutenant Colonel Cook. The reason Colonel Cook attended was to hear the complaints and demands of the DMM membership.

Thomas advised that it was his impression that these "Rap Sessions" lacked any formal organization and usually culminate prolonged violent and heated arguments among the membership regarding aims and purposes.

Thomas advised that because of the heated arguments and possibility for violence connected with these meetings, and the fact that the DMM membership excluded whites, Thomas did not care to be identified with the DMM inasmuch as that organization did not protract Thomas' philosophy on life which is that there should be equal opportunity and peaceful co-existence for all people regardless of their race, color or national origin.

Thomas advised that on March 12, 1971, he was transferred to the First Marine Regiment, and after being transferred, Thomas did not let it be known in the First Marines that he had been a member of the DMM. Thomas stated that as far as he knew there were no DMM members in the First Marines and as such, Thomas has had no further contact with the DMM.

Thomas advised that prior to leaving the Fifth Marines he had provided his name and address to numerous individuals who were his friends in order that they might continue to correspond about their experiences in Vietnam and elsewhere.

Thomas concluded by stating that he is of the opinion that he still has the insignia of the DMM among personal effects at his residence and he advised he would attempt to locate this insignia and would thereafter provide it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

On March 26, 1973, Thomas advised that at the DMM meeting that he attended in "Brother Bob's" houch when he was "crowned" those present as well as himself had address books and everyone in attendance passed their address booklets around the room and each person present wrote his name and/or nickname and address in the booklets which were then returned to their owners. Thomas was told by "Brother Bob" that the reason this was done was because when they were released from the military they could correspond reminiscing about their military experiences and also they could keep each other informed as to their whereabouts and experiences after leaving the military.

Thomas advised that his address booklet was red in color and was approximately six inches by four inches by one-fourth inch in dimensions. He stated that around March 12, 1971, as he was being transferred from the Fifth Marine Regiment to the First Marine Regiment, he discovered his address booklet and a camera had been stolen from him. He stated at the time he suspected and continues to suspect that "Brother Bob" is the person who took these items from him. Thomas stated that he has never corresponded with any DMM member by letter or otherwise while in the military service or since being discharged. He stated that he never knew the true names of any of the DMM members except he knew "Brother Killer's" last name was Harris, and he was a Mess Sergeant. Thomas stated he also knew "Brother Bob" was the "senior" and was a cook in the Fifth Marines who got an undesirable discharge and lived in Oceanside, California, after returning to the United States. He stated "Brother Nice" was from New York City and was assigned in the Motor Pool of Headquarters Company while in the Fifth Marines.

Thomas explained that the reason he knew so little about the persons who were members of the DMM is because he attended only one DMM meeting and he personally did not write down the names and addresses of those in attendance, rather they were written down by each person present and Thomas did not try to remember any of the names. He stated that since his address booklet was stolen he does not have any other identifying data of those he has stated were connected with the DMM. He stated the address booklet was the only data he had and he advised he has no other personal items wherein such information might be recorded.

Thomas did advise; however, he was mistaken about the Battalion Commander of the Fifth Marines who attended the

DE MAU MAU

"Rap Sessions." His last name was Kelley, not Cook. Lieutenant Colonel Cook was Thomas' Battalion Commander when Thomas was undergoing basic training at Parris Island, South Carolina.

Thomas further advised that since he was contacted on February 15, 1973, he has looked through all of his personal effects in search of the DMM insignia, but he stated he had been unable to locate it. He advised he had kept this in a shoebox containing letters he had received from his wife which she burned recently and Thomas expressed the opinion the insignia was in this box when his wife burned it.

Thomas was then asked if he thought he could recognize names or nicknames of persons who were members of the DMM and who were in the Fifth Marine Regiment during the period from about December 19, 1970 to March 12, 1971. He stated that he thought he could and thereafter he identified the following persons:

DE MAU MAU

DE MAU MAU (DMM)

De Mau Mau (DMM), also known as Mau Mau and Mau Maus, was organized in Vietnam in 1966 by members of the U.S. Marine Corps to "promote peace and brotherhood." Stated goals were promotion of black unity, recognition of black society, and equal opportunity with whites.

DMM advocates non-violence, but uses some guidelines of the Black Panther Party (BPP), and between 1969 and 1971, was reportedly involved in acts of mutinous conduct, militant confrontations with and threats against Marine Corps authorities, creation of racial incidents, and assaults upon non-military individuals in Vietnam and Okinawa. Some DMM activity has been noted among Marines returned from Vietnam at Marine Corps bases at Camp Pendleton, California, and Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

The Black Panther Party (BPP) is a black extremist organization started in Oakland, California, in December, 1966. It advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics to bring about the overthrow of the United States Government.

Recipients should conduct investigation regarding each person listed in the enclosed LHM in accordance with instructions set forth in referenced Bureau letter to Atlanta and as contained in Bureau airtel to Albany dated 11/24/72. Particular emphasis should be placed upon obtaining the Social Security Account Number and/or Marine Corps serial numbers of these individuals so their military service records may be located and reviewed, it being noted that JAMES EDWARD THOMAS has identified these persons as members of DMM while he was serving with the 5th Marine Regiment in Vietnam during the period, 12/19/70, to 3/12/71. If serial numbers obtained, forward them to St. Louis in order to effect review of military records at the MPRC.

For information of the Bureau, JAMES EDWARD THOMAS is presently married and has one child. He has a 10th grade education and presently resides with his wife and child in a house trailer in rural Chambers County, Ala., where he was born and reared. He has spent his entire life in this community except for military service from 9/11/69, to 9/10/71, in the United States Marine Corps. He and his wife are both employed as textile mill laborers and both work six days a week on separate shifts while the other cares for their child. THOMAS has stated he desires to cooperate with the Bureau fully in this matter and he stated he has no objections to his identity being revealed as the source of the information set forth in the enclosed LHM. He stated it was his opinion he would be of little value to the Bureau as a source inasmuch as he knows very little about the DMM and does not know the current whereabouts of any alleged DMM members or of any possible DMM activity.

Because of his limited education and rural background, coupled with the fact that he is not free to travel because of his family situation and employment, no further action is being contemplated toward his development as an extremist source.

St. Louis should at the MPRC, review service records under U.S. Marine Corps Serial Number 2630478, identifiable to R. L. YOUNG, aka "Brother Young Blood" for any information of an extremist nature and advise Springfield of the results. St. Louis should also review other appropriate service records as serial numbers and Social Security Account Numbers are developed.

MO 157-5083

The San Diego Division is requested to determine if any of the address booklets obtained by that office resemble or might be identifiable to the address booklet belonging to JAMES EDWARD THOMAS which was stolen from THOMAS on about 3/12/71, when THOMAS was transferred from the 5th Marine Regiment.

It is suggested that the Bureau handle dissemination to the Naval Investigative Service (NIS) and to other interested agencies.

set forth in referenced Chicago letter.

On June 7, 1973, LOVIE HUNTER, 30 South Waller, Chicago, sister of JENNIE ROWLAND, was interviewed regarding subject. HUNTER advised that she and her sister, ROWLAND, never lived at 5321 Congress Parkway, but they did subscribe to Chicago telephone number 379-4658 several years ago.
Since then, they have both moved and changed phone numbers several times.

They have no relatives who have attended Malcolm X College or any other college.

She knows of no one by the street name of "BLACK BROTHER CRAZY" or any derivation of the name.

On July 26, 1973, JENNIE ROWLAND was interviewed and said that she had discussed the subject's name with her sister, HUNTER, and could not think of anyone who might be the subject. She knows of no one by the name of the subject, or who would have militant tendencies as might a De Mau Mau member.

This case is being closed at Chicago.
